I am writing to recommend Joshua Byrnes as he would be a valued asset to any team. Joshua is currently working with us at Western Sydney University as a Senior Creative Content Developer in the Technology-Enabled Learning (TEL) team, Office of the PVC Learning & Teaching. I have worked closely with Joshua in my role as TEL Project Manager as he has led and worked on many projects for TEL.

Joshua's output is consistently of a high quality. He has led and worked on numerous video production projects from project scoping to pre-production to filming to post-production. He has designed and developed graphics, 3D assets and animated videos from scratch, meeting the brief that was given to him. He communicates effectively and has made valuable contributions to strategic team discussions by providing specialist knowledge in his field. He has also enthusiastically embraced learning new skills and taking on projects that would require him to upskill while working on the project. For example, Joshua led and developed a VR enhanced environment to teach students safety protocols and practices on a construction site. This was Joshua's first time developing a solution like this and he did it successfully.

Joshua is a reliable team member, who demonstrates leadership qualities through his ability to think strategically about what's best for the team and his willingness to step up when needed. For example, during a film shoot on location with clients, Joshua took responsibility of the shoot when his fellow team member let the team down by behaving badly in front of the client. He also successfully delivered what the client asked for, a virtual field trip, and ensured that our team's relationship with this particular client was still positive.

I have always appreciated when a team member can effectively manage multiple projects at any one time, and Joshua has consistently shown this. Regardless of whether he is leading the project or a team member, Joshua can manage his time efficiently to manage competing priorities. Additionally, most of the projects that Joshua leads are client projects, so this puts extra pressure on deadlines. Currently, he is leading 6 projects and is a team member of a further 3 projects. For context, that is more than any other team member.

Kind regards,
Liz Lai, Digital Learning Delivery Lead
